FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The philosophy of SOLS allows teachers and students to showcase their skills and expertise outside of the parameters of curriculum and instruction. The present class of students, alumni, and teachers' contributions under the headings of literary essays, articles, and recent case study analysis and events are important components of the school bulletin.

Dear Readers,

As we provide this quarterly newsletter, I am ecstatic and proud of the tremendous accomplishments and advancements made by our school. The vibrant academic and research endeavors that characterize our commitment to excellence are the main subject of this quarterly edition. From ground-breaking research projects to creative teaching strategies, we never stop pushing the boundaries and creating new standards. The philosophy of SOLS allows teachers and students to showcase their skills and expertise outside of the parameters of curriculum and instruction. The present class of students, alumni, and teachers' contributions under the headings of literary essays, articles, and recent case study analysis and events are important components of the school bulletin. Every SOL'S student, in our opinion, has a certain aptitude and thought process. This is clear from the way they showcased their abilities and concepts in the field they choose for themselves.

Happy Reading!

MESSAGE FROM CHAIR PROFESSOR (MOTILAL NEHRU)

The goal of Lex Patrika is to give academics, professionals, and students a forum to exchange ideas, findings, and analyses on a variety of legal subjects. It is a journal devoted to examining the dynamic and ever-changing legal profession. The publication's origins can be traced back to a common goal of promoting critical thinking and advancing legal study. The papers in this first issue demonstrate the breadth and complexity of current legal concerns.

It gives me great pleasure to contribute in "Lex Patrika" Newsletter of School of Legal Studies. Students, scholars, and instructors can contribute their research contributions, literary insights, academic accomplishments, and school activities in a vibrant platform offered by Lex Patrika.

The goal of Lex Patrika is to give academics, professionals, and students a forum to exchange ideas, findings, and analyses on a variety of legal subjects. It is a journal devoted to examining the dynamic and ever-changing legal profession. The publication's origins can be traced back to a common goal of promoting critical thinking and advancing legal study. The papers in this first issue demonstrate the breadth and complexity of current legal concerns. The contributors have shown remarkable scholarly vitality and intellectual innovation, from provocative debates on constitutional law to creative analysis of new legal developments.

Additionally, Lex Patrika enables our stakeholders—most notably alumni—to remain in contact with us and share their ideas and achievements, enhancing our community through their life experiences. By showing the different career paths that our graduates must take, this connection not only strengthens our network of alumni but also inspires our current students.

As the School of Legal Studies prepares to publish this first edition of Lex Patrika, I would want to take this opportunity to encourage our readers to interact with the material, add to the continuing discussion, and offer comments. Your involvement is essential to the Newsletter's development and success. We believe that everyone interested in dynamic law will find this Lex Patrika to be a useful tool and source of inspiration.

I want to express my sincere gratitude to our authors, whose commitment and diligence have enabled this publication. My gratitude is extended to the editorial team and the entire School of Legal Studies, whose dedication and careful attention to detail have been crucial in the creation of this Newsletter, Lex Patrika.

Thank you all and wish you all the best!

EVENTS CORNER: EXPERT LECTURE, MOTILALNEHRU CHAIR

Special Lecture Given by Vageshwari Deswal.

On 07th November 2024, the Moti Lal Nehru Chair, School of Legal Studies at K. R. Mangalam University organized a special lecture on "Regulation of Artificial Intelligence and Data Protection", aiming to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the evolving legal landscape surrounding AI governance and data privacy. The lecture focused on the intersection of technology and law, addressing key concerns such as ethical AI deployment, accountability, privacy safeguards, and compliance with emerging regulatory frameworks. The primary objective of the lecture was to familiarize students with the legal challenges posed by AI advancements, the necessity of robust data protection laws, and the global best practices shaping AI governance. Through an engaging discussion, the speaker elaborated on critical legislative measures, including the role of GDPR, India's Digital Personal Data Protection Act, and international AI ethics guidelines. The session also explored case studies highlighting AI-related data breaches, bias in AI algorithms, and regulatory responses from different jurisdictions. The outcome of the lecture was a heightened awareness among students regarding the legal implications of AI-driven decision-making, the significance of ethical AI practices, and the importance of balancing innovation with privacy rights. The interactive session encouraged critical thinking and discussions on future regulatory strategies to ensure responsible AI usage.

In conclusion, the lecture reinforced the need for a dynamic and adaptive legal framework to address the complexities of AI and data protection, equipping students with essential knowledge to navigate this rapidly evolving domain in their future legal careers.

LEGAL AID ACTIVITIES

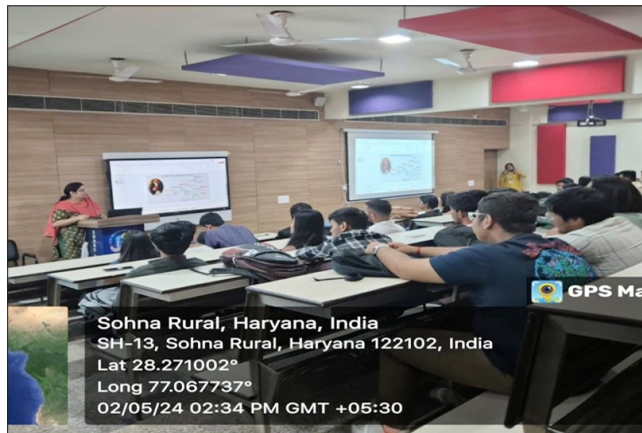

Celebrating Constitution Day through Creativity: Poster Making Competition at KRMU

As part of the Constitution Day celebrations, the School of Legal Studies at K.R. Mangalam University, through its Legal Aid Committee, organized a Poster Making Competition on 26th November 2024. Held in the Moot Court Hall on Wednesday, 27th November 2024, the event saw vibrant participation from 108 law students, with Prof. (Dr.) Kaveri Sharma (Judge) gracing the occasion as the resource person.

The competition was conducted in offline mode and coordinated by Dr. Megha Garg and Dr. Shobhna Jeet, with enthusiastic support from student coordinators Ankit Mahla and Prerna. The primary objective was to encourage students to explore and visually represent the core values of the Indian Constitution, including justice, liberty, equality, and fraternity.

Participants expressed their understanding of constitutional principles through thought-provoking and artistically compelling posters. Themes such as fundamental rights and duties, the Preamble, democratic values, women's rights, and the role of the judiciary were powerfully illustrated, showcasing not only artistic flair but also deep legal insight.

This initiative offered a creative platform for students to engage with the Constitution beyond the classroom, fostering a deeper appreciation for its living legacy. It also promoted awareness of civic responsibilities and the rule of law, instilling a sense of patriotism and legal consciousness among the young minds.

Picture 1: Professor (Dr.) Tania Gupta is delivering talk on vision & mission of Dr. Ambedkar.

The event concluded on a high note, with certificates awarded to winners in recognition of their creativity and insight. Faculty members and the judge commended the participants for their efforts and highlighted the importance of understanding the Constitution as the cornerstone of India's democracy.

The Poster Making Competition not only enriched students' academic experience but also inspired them to become responsible citizens committed to upholding constitutional values.

Commemoration of Constitution Rights and Duties

As part of Constitution Day celebrations, NSS K.R. Mangalam University, in collaboration with the Legal Aid Committee, conducted an enriching offline session at Government Senior Secondary School, Abheypur. The session, led by Dr. Arti Sharma, aimed to raise awareness among 25 NSS volunteers and 25 school students about the constitutional rights and duties of Indian citizens.

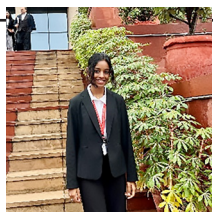

Dr. Sharma provided an engaging overview of the Constitution's drafting process, its key milestones, and the vital role of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. The session included a collective reading of the Preamble and discussions on Fundamental Rights, Duties, and the Directive Principles of State Policy. Through interactive dialogue, students were encouraged to reflect on their civic responsibilities, fostering a deeper understanding of democratic values.

Key Outcomes:

- Enhanced knowledge of the Indian Constitution
- Promotion of civic responsibility and patriotism
- Active student engagement and critical thinking
- Strengthened respect for constitutional values and national unity
- The session successfully instilled a sense of constitutional pride and awareness, marking Constitution Day as a moment of reflection and learning for all participants.

Greetings!

KR Mangalam University law program was exceptional. The faculty's dedication and expertise created a stimulating learning environment. The curriculum effectively blended theoretical knowledge with practical application, preparing me for the real world of law. I particularly valued the focus on research and moot court, which significantly enhanced my analytical and advocacy skills. The university's modern infrastructure and resources further contributed to a positive learning experience. Beyond academics, the supportive community and diverse student body fostered personal and professional growth. KR Mangalam University provided a strong foundation for my legal career, and I'm proud to be an alumnus.
